

Cecilia Barsk

Sustainalytics London

Manager, Advisory Services

Cecilia is part of Sustainalytics' team in London to enhance services to UK-based clients. She brings to this role broad international experience in responsible investment, including time spent at the UN Principles for Responsible Investment where she was involved in developing the reporting framework. Prior to that, she worked with the Brazilian federal government on an international environmental education project and as an analyst in financial regulation at Barclays Capital and Deutsche Bank Securities in New York. Cecilia studied Economics and International Affairs at the University of Colorado and also holds an MSc in Environmental Policy from the London School of Economics. She speaks fluent Portuguese and Swedish.
